(October 2021) (LEARN and when to remove this message template) Toy Story In the animated movie Toy Story, Buzz Lightyear, an action figure, is given to a guy named Andy Davis by his as a birthday present. He quickly hits the other toys with his skills, flashy accessories and wings, and soon becomes Andy's favorite toy. Sheriff Woody, the former favorite toy, gets jealous. It is soon discovered that Buzz does not know he is a toy, sincerely believing he is a space ranger sent to stop the Evil Emperor Zurg. He also believes that his red "laser" light bulb is a lethal weapon, that his wings are functional aircraft grade steel, and that he cannot breathe with his helmet open. After Woody pulls Buzz out of Andy's window, Buzz follows and confronts Woody in Andy's car. The two separate from Andy during the fight, and Woody tries to convince Buzz that he is a toy, but fails. In an attempt to return to Andy, the two are captured by Andy's sadistic neighbor, Sid Phillips. Buzz sees an ad on a TV at Sid's house that reveals he's, in fact, a toy. In a phase of denial, Buzz tries to fly and ends up breaking his arm. Fall into despair. Sid's toys stare at Buzz's arm and Sid records it on a rocket with the intention of blowing it up. Woody convinces Buzz that his purpose is to make Andy happy; Eventually, causing Buzz to regain his resolve. He allies with Woody to get away from Sid and get back to Andy. While they chase Andy's truck, Woody is attacked by Sid Scud's dog. Buzz fights the dog to save Woody, and Woody, in turn, uses RC to save Buzz. When the two are still unable to reach Andy, Woody is forced to light the rocket and launch them into the air; Buzz spreads his wings to cut the tape by holding it to the rocket, saving them from the blast and the solo for the first time. After being reunited with Andy, Buzz and Woody remain close friends. In the animated movie Toy Story 2, Woody is kidnapped by an avid toy collector At McWhiggin, who intends to sell him and other Woody's Roundup toys to a toy museum in Japan. Buzz takes Mr. Potato Head, Slinky Dog, Rex, and Hamm on a daring mission to I'm Woody. They go to the Alys Toy Barn store, where they think Woody was taken. The journey involves crossing a busy road, but Buzz uses traffic cones to help the group avoid being crushed by cars. In the store, the toys separate. Buzz discovers an aisle full of Buzz Lightyear toys, one of which has a utility belt. When Buzz tries to touch the belt, the Buzz utility belt comes alive; even though he thinks he's a real space ranger. Quickly arrest Andy's Buzz like a rogue space ranger. Andy's Buzz asks aloud if he was really deluded while Utility Belt Buzz reproaches him for backtalking and imprisons him for court-martial in an empty Buzz Lightyear case. Andy's Buzz tries unsuccessfully to explain that he and Buzz's utility belt are both toys. Soon, the other toys find Buzz from the utility belt and trade him for Andy's Buzz tries to get their attention, but he can't, and he's forced to run away alone. He chases them out of the store and across the street to Al's apartment, where they're holding Woody prisoner. In an attempt to escape from Al's toy barn, Buzz inadvertently frees an action figure of the evil Emperor Zurg, who chases him with the intention of destroying him. Andy's Buzz rejoins the group and convinces Woody, worried about Andy's growth and who had thought of going to Japan with the other Roundup Toys, that it would be better to go home. Woody invites the other Roundup toys to come with them; Jessie and Bullseye agree, but Stinky Pete refuses and locks them in (and Buzz out) when they try to escape. On his return, he takes Woody and the Roundup toys to the airport. Andys Buzz and Utility Belt Buzz collect the other toys and chase Al into the elevator shaft, where they come from Zurg, who reveals to be Buzz's father before he was accidentally hit by Rex's well. Belt Buzz is left behind with a reformed Zurg, while Andy's Buzz and the other toys requisition a Planet Van Pizza and drive towards Airport, with Andy's Buzz standing on a pizza box and driving the steering wheel. At the airport, they subdue Stinky Pete and save Woody and Bullseye in the baggage handling system. Buzz and Woody ride Bullseye on the runway to rescue Jessie from the plane, and the toys all come home in a stolen baggage cart. At the end of the movie, Buzz developed a crush on Jessie. He and Woody decide not to worry about Andy growing up, as they will always have as friends for "infinity and beyond." Toy Story 3 In the animated movie Toy Story 3, Woody, Buzz, and the other toys accidentally end up in a kindergarten after Andy's mother made a mistake while Andy is packing for college. Woody tries to convince the other toys, decides that the best thing the toys can do is stay together at the nursery. That makes Woody go out on his own looking for Andy. Meanwhile, Andy's toys are greeted by Lotso-Huggin'Bear, who seems to be the leader in daycare toys. He assigns them to the Caterpillar Room, where they are subjected to a very tough game by children who are too young to play safely with toys like them. On the orders of the other toys, Buzz goes to Lotso to request a transfer to the Butterfly Room, and discovers Lotso is running a kind of Toy Mafia. When Buzz rejects Lotso's offer to join his gang, Lotso orders his minions to switch Buzz to demo mode. This causes Buzz's memories to be erased, which caused the space rangers to hallucinate. Lotto takes the opportunity to make Buzz believe Andy's toys are Zurg's servants. The now brainwashing Buzz traps his friends on them trying to get back to Andy; It has the task of supervising the every night. Woody, after discovering the truth about Lotus, returns to Sunnyside. Andy's toys manage to subdue Buzz in an attempt to restore his memories, but accidentally he to his "Spanish Mode", confusing many characters and resulting in many character for the public. BUZZ still believes he's a real space Ranger, and Woody can convince him that Andy's toys are his "amigos" on the first asking. while she does that. Lotso confronts them as they reach the dumpster out of the asylum date. In the resulting altercation, lot and almost all Andy's toys are dumped in a garbage truck. Buzz Enoricially saves Jessie from being buried in trash, but ends up crushing by a broken TV. Jessie breaks into tears on Buzz's "dead" body, only for the latter to restore his normal personality/remembers finally restored (although without remembrance of events that occurred during his brainwashing mode and his Spanish mode). At the dump, buzz and woody rescue lot by a crusher and help him reach an emergency stop button, only for LOTSO to abandon them on a conveyor belt title for an incinerator.

Believe they'll die, Buzz and Jessie join hands and face the fire approaching. This requires all other toys to do the same. After being rescued by three alien toy operating a claw, buzz and the rest of Andy's toys come home. Andy gives them all to a Woody little girl who met at the daycare called Bonnie. While the toys settled in Bonnie's house, Buzz and the rest of Andy's toys come home.

message) In Star Command's Buzz Lightyear television series, Buzz Lightyear is a Space Ranger working for Star Command, protecting the universe from the Evil Emperor Zurg. He works on a team with Mira Nova, a princess. Booster, a janitor. And XR, a robot. This version of Buzz Lightyear has a different personality than the one in Toy Story. Buzz Lightyear also had many amorous interests in the show. He once had a friend and partner named Warp Darkmater, however, he later joined Emperor Evil Zurg and became his main agent. Buzz Lightyear also seems to never take off the purple head he has in his Space Ranger uniform. Aside from his usual slogan, he has a habit of telling the bad guys that "evil never wins!" Other apparitions This section does not cite any source. Help improve this section by adding citations to reliable sources. Disney's Animated Storybook: Toy Story and Disney's Activity Center: Toy Story, both released in 1996. [1] Buzz Lightyear also appears in Pixar's 2006, Cars, along with Woody and Hamm. He is also In the Toy Story Toons episode Hawaiian Vacation, Small Fry and Partysaurus Rex, and the two specialties: Toy Story of Terror! And the story of the toy that time forgot. Buzz Lightyear also appeared in two episodes of Family Guy both times in gag-away created by Stewie Griffin. In the episode 2013 "Chris Cross", after Stewie serenaded Brian Griffin with "You Need Me", he complained that he invited Buzz Lightyear to watch and did not show up. This is Buzz Lightyear talking to a woman in a bar. In episode 2017 "The Finer Strings", when Brian insists Carter is his friend, Stewie says, "This is what Woody thought of Buzz Lightyear". This leads to a cutting line where Woody catches Buzz Lightyear making out with Bo Peep. Buzz was also mentioned by the Simpson. In episode 2005
"The Italian Bob", Lisa Simpson cites both Buzz Lightyear and her vocal actor Tim Allen. In the episode 2010, "The Color Yellow", Ralph Wigum keeps in a photo where he is with Buzz Lightyear and Elmo from Sesame Street, saying "Martin Luther King had a dream. Dreams are where Elmo and Toy Story had a party, and I went there". In 2011's episode "Flaming Moe", Bart Simpson is playing with a parody of Buzz Lightyear toys. In the 2021 short film Plusaversari, he appeared together with the Mandalorian with the latter who beats him. Buzz appeared in an episode of South Park. In the 2019

Buzz Lightyear is a notable character in all Disney and Resorts parks, located in Tomorrowland and Toy Story Land. It is often accompanied by aliens. Tim Allen resumed his rank the film Ralph Breaks the Internet by Walt Disney Animation Studios of 2018, where he repeated his famous slogan. In the 1995, the Thinkway Toys introduced a 12-inch Buzz Lightyear figure. [12] The film was sold in bulk during the Christmas period following the release of the film, especially in the United States and the United Kingdom. In the 1995, Thinkway did not think that Toy Story 2 refers to. Originally, Tim Allen's voice was on the action figure, but later models featured an actor who sounds like Allen. In October 2009 and 2010, when Toy Story was reprinted in 3-D and Toy Story and Disney published their version of a Buzz Lightyear replica figure. Both Buzz Lightyears were much more detailed than the other Buzz Lightyear figures and both had features similar to those seen in the movie with pop-out wings, lasers, wrist communicator and the two figures had more than 65 and 30 sentences respectively with an original entry. However, the figure Thinkway Toys lacks karate chop action, while the Disney Store version does. Only the figure Thinkway Toys is supplied with a Certificate of Authenticity and both are packed in the packaging of the ship as seen in the films.
